Turkey-Slovenia | Photo Story

Introduction

In this project, we have discussed the problems both in our school in Turkey and in Slovenia and explained the situation of environmental pollution. Later on, we found suggestions on how to solve the problem.

The Issue

From nowadays' problems, like climate change and global warming, have caused weird natural events.

For example, it snowed in April in Turkey, which shouldn't have happened. Not only this, but because of the climate change, the ice on North and South Pol melted because of the climate change, the sea level fell down and drought has increased. We can give a bunch of examples, but as a summary it caused plenty of natural disasters.

So why did this happen? To sum it up, the air pollution got more and more and it caused the greenhouse gas to increase. This greenhouse gas caused the world's temperature to increase. So, the main cause of the global warming is all because of the choices people make on a daily basis.

There are other types of trash in a plastic recycling bin. How can we have a green future?

There is trash around the leaves. Does everyone know that it does not disappear it just changes its form?

In April the temperature went lower than it should in spring, so it snowed.

We can see lots of trash everywhere in forests too. People throw them and leave. It causes climate problems. Instead of polluting the environment we can recycle. For example we can make new fruit bags from old used fabrics or we can make new bags from our old jeans...

What Should We Do?

If we plant a lot of trees, use electrical appliances less, if we are more knowledgeable about the environment, repair deteriorating machines instead of throwing them away, use plastic materials less, we can create a more beautiful world . We can also end global warming if we do these things. We must educate people first, and that education has to take place at an early age. So, we must take care of nature and not harm it.
